

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention involves a portable communication system where there is a service point unit and an attached second computer unit and whereby the second computer unit is a hands-free activated computer that communicates with a computer in the service unit that will interact with a hands-free computer.